Biosketch

Carlos Chiatti holds a Master in Economics and a PhD in Epidemiology. He is a research fellow at the Italian National Institute of Health and Science on Ageing (INRCA) and post-doc researcher at Lund University (Sweden). He is Associate Editor for the Journal BMC Health Services Research.

He has been visiting fellow at the University of Newcastle upon Tyne (UK) and Adjunct Professor in Health Economics at the University of Ancona (Italy). In his past professional experience, he has been consultant for many public and private health institutions in projects aimed at improving services organisation and the Information Systems within the Italian National Health Service. At INRCA, he recently completed a large community trial (UP-TECH project), funded by the Ministry of Welfare, aimed at improving the provision of health and social care for patients affected by Alzheimer Disease, through a better integration of existing services and the use of new technologies. He's now working on the project TECH@HOME, a new trial funded by the Ministry of Health in Sweden in order to explore the potential of new technologies for dementia patients, building on the UP-TECH experience.
